

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A computerized network file system and method are provided. The present invention permits the amount of network bandwidth that is consumed by tasks related to network file system overhead to be substantially reduced. The present invention also permits the amount of congestion in the network to be reduced.